IF YOU LIKE . . .
APOCALYPTIC/ POST APOCALYPTIC
CHECK OUT THESE RECOMMENDATIONS!

The Power by Naomi Alderman
“A literal power shift that restructures the shape of society.”

The Last by Hanna Jameson
“27 strangers are in an isolated Swiss hotel when nuclear war breaks out.”

A Boy and His Dog at the End of the World by C. A. Fletcher
“In a world that’s a shadow of the world that was, a young boy goes on an epic adventure to rescue his beloved dog.”

Hollow Kingdom by Kira Jane Buxton
“A wholly unique take on the apocalypse told with humor and lyricism from an unexpected perspective.”

The Book of M by Peng Shepherd
“The world changes as people’s shadows begin to disappear along with their memories and ability to reason.”

The City Where We Once Lived by Eric Barnes
“Climate change has reshaped the world. Our narrator reflects on what he has lost and is surprised by what he finds himself fighting to hold on to.”

Wonderblood by Julia Whicker
“Magic and sacrifice have replaced science and rationality after a mad-cow type disease has wiped out most of the U.S.”

Moon of the Crusted Snow by Waubgeshig Rice
“A story of the effects of an Apocalypse on an isolated northern Anishinaabe community.”

Year of the Orphan by Daniel Findlay
“A young girl scavenges to survive in the harsh Australian outback after the apocalypse.”

Trouble No Man by Brian Hart
“The west coast is a wasteland due to drought and lack of fuel and is controlled by warring militias. One man wanders through them, searching for his family.”

The Lightest Object in the Universe by Kimi Eisele
“A post-apocalyptic love story that ultimately ends up being about resilience and the communities we build.”

Edwardsville Public Library